THE GAOL.

The criminal trial of yesterday, in which the gaol warders charged with manslaughter of an Indian prisoner were acquitted, will nevertheless be an important result. We are not about to criticise the verdict rendered in this particular case; but it is impossible to refrain from strong comment on the defects of a system which has rendered the trial and acquittal of the prisoners possible. Had they been found guilty, the public might have fairly concluded that the deceased met his death from exceptional circumstances, such as might occur under any system, and which the law had dealt with in due course. But in the present case the death of a prisoner has obviously resulted from a concurrence of acts which, though not individually criminal in the eyes of the law, call for full investigation with a view to preventing their recurrence.

We are not aware to what extent the arrangements regarding the medical inspection of prisoners rest with the Colonial Surgeon, but that question can be disposed of in a very few words. If he is the sole authority on this point, his neglect to hold a daily medical inspection of all prisoners is remarkable, and in our opinion blameable; while, if the regulations are framed by others, it is singular that he has not pointed out the necessity of this inspection. If, on the other hand, he is allowed no voice in the matter, he is to be pitied, as he thereby becomes exposed to invidious criticism upon matters beyond his jurisdiction. But we may fairly assume that the attention of the government having been directed to this point, immediate directions will be given to assiduously the practice to that pursued in our convict gaols at home.

MR. BURLINGAME IN CALIFORNIA.

MR. BURLINGAME'S first speech at San Francisco appears to have given much satisfaction to the audience to whom it was addressed, dealing as it did with those generalities which any one desirous of making capital out of foreign relations with China, finds it so easy to enunciate. The pitch of it, we imagine, lies in the following paragraph—

"I will not speak at length to-night of its (the mission's) purposes. I must reserve myself for questions as they arise; but this I will say, Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, that this mission means progress. 'Hear hear,' and applause. It means that China desires to come into warmer and more intimate relations with the West. It means that she desires to come under the obligations of that international law of which you, sir, (General Halleck) are one of the ablest exponents, to the end that she may enjoy the advantages of that law. It means that China, conscious of her own integrity, wishes to have her questions stated—that she is willing to submit her questions to the general judgment of mankind. It means that she intends to come into the brotherhood of nations. It means commerce; it means peace; it means a unification in its own interest of the whole human race."

This is very nice talking and would be worth a good deal in evidence of the progress of China, were there not a few reasons for misdoubting, not the sentiments, but the qualifications of the speaker. In the first place, the Chinese themselves term him "the American, Burlingame," who is appointed to accompany the native officials to the States and Europe, and not "the Envoy" from China to Europe. Secondly, those who have the best opportunity of knowing, say that "this mission means obstruction instead of progress; that it means that China wishes to keep as great a distance as possible from the West, and that it believes a mission thither to be the best means of quieting Western obtrusiveness; and that China is not in the least desirous of submitting her questions to the 'general judgment of mankind.'"

We do not indeed assert these as facts. Time alone will demonstrate whether Mr. Burlingame or his opponents have rightly indicated the results of the mission with which he is associated. If the former, we shall willingly accord him the praise he will have deserved. But "circumstantial evidence" is at present in favor of the views we have of late expressed, opposed to the mission started under such auspices.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.

It appears that Inspector Gimes, under instructions from his superiors, took out summonses against Messrs Smith, Carter & Co., Mr. Walter Noley and others for having dared to fire off certain fireworks on the Praya East on the night of the 4th of July, in celebration of the independence declared by the American States in 1776. The defendants appeared before Mr. Goodlake at the Magistracy this morning, when that worthy occupant of the Bench found it somewhat hard to preserve that gravity commonly ascribed to the administrators of justice. His Worship said that he had seen many demonstrations on the 4th of July all over the world, and he failed to perceive much harm in them. There seemed to have been no damage done, and as defendants had been put to considerable inconvenience in attending the Court, he good-naturedly discharged them.

The Friend of China dated 30th June, contains the following paragraph:—
